Teach the value of a dollar

We know teachers need a resource for an often mandated, but also underfunded curriculum of financial literacy. We also know that financial literacy has yet to achieve standard curriculum status: finding quality resources poses a real challenge. As a not-for-profit financial institution, we're deeply interested in helping young people become wise stewards of their money. And, as a credit union, we're experts in teaching fiscal responsibility. For that reason, we're offering Banzai – an award-winning financial literacy program – to you and your students at no cost.
